

CHECK IT OUT

AT DWIGHT MARVIN LIBRARY

Marvin Library Learning Commons

The Dwight Marvin Library and the Learning Centers are partners within the Marvin Library Learning Commons building. You will find group study rooms, access to technology, assistance with academics and research, and a café for a beverage or snack between classes or while studying.

The Dwight Marvin Library Web Site is <https://library.hvcc.edu>

The library's website is the gateway to a vast collection of resources. Find books, videos, journals and articles available online through many research databases. Use Research Guides to locate regularly updated subject-based resource guides and find help with proper citation formats when writing papers.

Ask a Librarian

You can save time and minimize frustration when you start your research with the help of a librarian. Librarians are available for immediate assistance in the Writing and Research Center and online. You also can make a research appointment to meet individually with a librarian for up to one hour. Through the "Ask a Librarian" service on our website, librarians are available to assist you any time by text, chat or e-mail.

Books, Journals and More

The library has thousands of books, videos, journals, e-books, newspapers and other resources to support courses and programs offered at the college. Using the resource sharing service, you may borrow books from other libraries and have them delivered here to campus for short-term use.

Textbooks on Reserve

Your course textbooks may be available via the reserve lending service. Textbooks on reserve may be borrowed for use within the building only. Visit <https://libguides.hvcc.edu/reservetextbooks>

Study Spaces

Both silent study areas and group study rooms are available to make your library visit as productive as possible. Reserve a group study room online at <https://libcal.hvcc.edu>

Equipment

Current students may borrow laptops, wifi hotspots, graphic or scientific calculators, GoPro cameras, or other equipment. Wireless access is available throughout the building for laptops and mobile devices. The Computer Learning Center on the lower level provides access to the academic computing environment. Printing is available from networked laser printers.
